Subject: Costco and Roundup

Dear Ravalli County Board of Health,

It looks like Costco is joining the so called "witch hunt" that two of your members said was being carried out against Roundup. Costco isn't going to carry it in their stores any more. That is very good news.

A new study shows that glyphosate, the main ingredient in Roundup is very damaging to bees' ability to digest their food.

It does pretty much the same to grazing animals, birds and other vertebrate and invertebrate animals, including humans.

Sincerely,
Judy Hoy
