To Whom It May Concern,

Wicked Snowcats was founded in 2018 as a highly specialized snow management tool. With the track design of a snowcat, we can easily access more terrain in a quicker amount of time and implement snow management systems with virtually no disruption to the ground underneath. This key factor enables greater acceptance of landowners allowing work in their snow covered fields without the concern of disrupting productive ground below when spring time arrives.

WSC is insured and always willing to travel to the snow. We can be a great tool in assisting with the opening of plugged roads that are drifted shut, whether working independently or as a team with other equipment, such as maintainers and snow blowers. One of our greatest features is the ability to get to a variety of terrains and build snow berms as a preventative measure in keeping roads open. Stopping snow before it reaches the roadway will save you time and money. With calving season upon us, WSC can be a time saving asset in opening feeding and calving pastures so ranchers are not fighting the snow all winter and giving livestock greater area to roam. We can provide the ability to access communication towers and recover wrecked equipment where others cannot go.

I have experience in working for the Montana Department of Transportation as a plow driver and assisted in opening of the Beartooth Pass, along with three winters for Carbon County in south central Montana plowing snow with maintainers and operating rotary snow blowers. My appreciation for snowcats came from grooming at the local ski resort and building ski joring tracks over the years. Please feel free to call anytime with any questions on how I can help make your winter a little easier. Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Zach Johnston
